GREAT FAIR READY FOR OPENING DAY

Fourth Annual Exhibition Will Give Best Attractions Ever Offered.

GLENN CURTISS THE STAR

Noted Aviator to Make Daily Trips in His Golden Flier.

One week from to-morrow the annual Exhibition of the Virginia State Fair will open, greater than ever, when there will gather in Richmond the greatest throngs of people ever seen in Virginia outside of the Jamestown Exposition. Never before in its history have the people of the Old Dominion worked so harmoniously and enthusiastically for the cause of the fair, all personalities being laid aside in the eagerness to achieve the tremendous success which is now near realization.

The gratifying results which have attended the efforts of the association to provide, regardless of cost, the greatest attractions ever seen at any fair in the Southland is evidenced by the successful termination of the negotiations with the champion aviator, Glenn H. Curtiss, who recently established world's records and captured a cup in the international contests at Rheims, France. The identical airplane, "Golden Flier," which carried the honors in the above contest, will positively be seen in daily exhibitions of aerial flight at the Fair Grounds next week. Much credit is due the management of the fair in securing, at great expense, this world-renowned attraction, and obtaining for the people of Virginia, and the entire South, in fact, an opportunity to witness the feats of one of the most marvelous inventions of the age.

Wireless Station at Fair. No less wonderful, though less spectacular, will be the demonstrations of the wireless telegraph, which will also be seen on the grounds, and which will flash through the firmaments unseen the globe encircling currents which transmit the messages and annihilate space. An operating station, with tower, is now under construction, and the news of the world will be picked up by an expert operator and recorded on bulletin boards where all can see. Messages will be received and transmitted at the usual tariff rates to and from the most distant cities, as well as vessels on the high seas. These are but two of the great at-

ACTRESS AT VIRGINIA HOME

Fritz Scheff, the New York comic opera star, and her husband, John Fox, Jr., the Virginia author, have been spending the summer at their bungalow at Big Stone Gap, and have added much to the social gaiety of the little mountain town.

Attractions offered by the fair to induce Virginians to interest themselves in the big exposition of their State's great resources and best products. The educational features of the fair will be the most remarkable ever devised in this State, and there will be found in the vast exhibits much to interest, instruct and enlighten.

The horse-races will be contested by some of the best stock in the county and every heat will be a race.

The athletic meet, to be held under sanction of the Amateur Athletic Union, promises to bring together some clever athletes, and world's records may be lowered.

Especially noteworthy is the Marathon race of twenty-six miles, which will be run on the race-course while the other athletic events are in progress. In order to give many belated entrants an opportunity to get on the lists, the entries will not be closed to-morrow, as originally planned, but will remain open until midnight of next Saturday.

and two loving cups, to be awarded in the contests. Elaborate programs have been arranged for both afternoon and evening performances in front of the grandstand. Among the numbers will be Reno and Smith, in their comic trick house act; the six Dandling Dolls, five flying Glimores, Brown and Linden, in their comedy barrel act; the four Londoners in their great eating act; the clever Newsomes and the famous Tivoli troupe.

The evening performances will wind up with the brilliantly illumined "Parisian Aerial Ballet." A brilliant feature of the fair will be the "Society Circuit," organized by the fair association in lieu of the Welsh Bros; show, which recently disbanded. Performances will be given each day and night. A splendid combination of star acts will comprise this unique show, principally of which will be the "death swing," in which an automobile carrying a young woman rushes at terrific speed down an incline and describes a complete somersault in mid-air.

This thrilling feat is a hair-raiser, and a slight deviation from the accurate calculations would precipitate the car to destruction and its occupant to death. Over $1,000 worth of fireworks will be burned up each night in presenting the magnificent pyrotechnical display of the National Pyrotechnical Company, who guarantees to outclass the finest performance ever seen in Richmond. The climax of the evening performance will be the reproduction of the earthquake at San Francisco, in which scenery 700 feet in length, 200 feet longer than any other ever presented, will be used.

The first scene will show the city of San Francisco on the eve of the great calamity; then will come the horrifying earthquake, the crashing of buildings, followed by explosions, detonations and flames. The fire apparatus will be seen rushing through the streets of the doomed city, seemingly enveloped at times by the great tongues of flames. Fire and smoke will continue until the fair city's ruin is complete. A mile and a half of amusements, the best ever seen under canvas in the South, will line both sides of "Wah Hoo Lane." The lane will be illuminated at night by streamers of incandescent lights on the plan pursued in this city during the progress of Jamestown Exposition.

Some of the attraction, which will be seen on "Wah Hoo Lane" are: Ferris trained wild animal show, the battle of the Monitor and Merrimack, Kolan and Ebert's pantomime shows, "Old Plantation," Count Teddy, the smallest man in the world; Minnehaha, the wild girl from Barren; the baloon-quested people, the tallest boy in the world (twenty-one hands one and a half inches tall), which captured first prize at the St. Louis Exposition; the famous Iroquois village, or the strongly in sympathy with all these policies and propose to do everything that I can to maintain them. I should consider it one of the greatest losses that my administration could sustain if you would leave it, and I hope you will not think my action in writing this enclosed letter to Secretary Ballinger is reason for your taking a step of this character."

Mr. Pinchot himself says: "The expressions by the President, which are most kind toward me, and favorable toward my work, as well as the statement authorized by him, denote his attitude toward city conservation policy with convincing clear-

Richmond Values Steadily Increasing

The man or woman to-day who thinks a moment that the values of Richmond and some suburban real estate will not increase is vastly mistaken. So long as Richmond is the value of property in the city and some of the suburbs is bound to increase.

Danton & Purcell, Real Estate Agents, of 1110 East Main Street, have some unquestionable proofs of rapid rises in real estate in all sections of the city and Monument Heights handled by them. This firm has made a very large number of deals during the last year, and has sold many pieces of property at a profit. It is a handsome profit for the previous investor. This firm expects to sell some of these pieces many times more, and of course, always at a profit. If you have any property that you want to sell, or if you want to buy some property, see the members of this firm. They can save or make you money—Adv.

ness. I shall not resign, but shall remain in the government service. I shall give my best efforts in the future, as in the past, to promote the conservation and development of our forests, waters, lands and minerals, and to defend the conservation policies whenever the need arises. Especially shall I continue to advocate the control of water-power supply in the public interest and the use of our institutions, laws and natural resources for the benefit of the plain people. I believe in equality of opportunity and the Roosevelt policies, and I propose to stand for them as long as I have the strength to stand for anything."

Nearly a Faux Pas. A local committeeman, who, in the heat of entertaining the President, had been oblivious of the Ballinger-Pinchot frost, came pretty near creating an embarrassing situation for both these men.

He had conducted Mr. Pinchot to a carriage which was just about to start for the President's lunch at the Country Club. "Oh!" said the local committeeman, "I might just as well get Secretary Ballinger."

Several newspaper correspondents who heard the committeeman headed him off, and suggested that he tell Secretary Ballinger that Mr. Pinchot also was going along in the carriage. The local committeeman returned from Mr. Ballinger's room with the information that the secretary's sore throat would keep him indoors.

The bitter feeling between the Mormons and the Gentiles here has marred the Taft celebration, and made it decidedly unpleasant for the President. The matter culminated to-day in Senator Smoot, the Mormon apostle, who heads the Taft reception committee, barring the representatives of the city's two newspapers from a train which was to carry the President and others out to Salt Air shore. One of the reporters was put off the train by the Senator after it had started for the baths.

His Visit Marred. The anti-Mormon papers, in return, are attacking Senator Smoot viciously. One of them characterized the Taft celebration as an attempt on the part of the Mormons to monopolize the President. "Hogwash!" "A disgusting show of the church's power!" was the way the exhortation to the Salt Air baths is described. The President is obliged, with all this dickering and mud-slinging going on, to go through his program smiling, although it seems to have become an ordeal instead of a pleasure.

included a breakfast at the Commercial Club, attended on an organ recital in the Mormon tabernacle, a luncheon at the Country Club, a speech in one of the public parks, and a dinner to-night at the Alta Club.

In his speech at the breakfast the President reiterated the changes that he would suggest to Congress, and in his speech in the park he renewed his promise to do everything possible to legalize and carry through the reclamation projects that have been undertaken.

Makes Exhibition Drive. A crowd gathered at the Country Club in hope of seeing the President play golf. They were not disappointed, and the committee proposed that he make one drive. The President was modest in displaying his form, but consented to drive just one if a few of the other political celebrities would do so too. Everybody who thought he was a celebrity consented, and the President peeled his long-tailed coat and threw it over a chair. Grasping a driver, he addressed the ball with a pose that would have done credit to any exhibition player.

He warmed up with one or two strokes, and then bringing the driver back with a full swing sent the ball whizzing right down the middle of the course for a clean 200 yards.

"Try another one," the crowd shouted, and the applause died down, but the President was too wise for that. He pulled on his coat with the remark, "No, perhaps I couldn't do it again; I'll retire on my laurels."

The President wrote his name on the ball that he drove and it was hung up in the club as a souvenir of the President's visit. The President was about to leave the clubhouse when one of the caddies stepped up to him, "Would like to shake hands with you," said the caddy.

"All right," replied the President. "Come on."

About forty caddies filed past and shook the President's hand, while the Salt Lake City reception committee stood and fretted because the President was taking time from the public meeting in the park. Mr. Taft will leave here at noon to-morrow. He will stop for three hours to-morrow afternoon at Ogden.

What the Knocker Has Been Saying

There are some people who are running backwards all their life. Their mental visions are reversed. They are not so bad as the knocker, especially in a real estate business. The knocker is always saying that he is afraid that real estate has reached the top value. But notwithstanding his knocks and howls he has been advancing steadily in Richmond for the last 100 years. And they will continue to advance for at least a hundred years more. If you wish to learn something about real estate as an investment you should confer with Blanton & Purcell, real estate agents and experts, 1110 E. Main Street—Adv.
